Judy Holliday
Steve Allen

as we see it

The Free Library of Philadelphia reports that thanks to the better TV programs, which are stimulating people to read more, the library last year enjoyed its busiest season since 1934. Libraries in other cities report a similar trend.

This news undoubtedly will come as a tremendous shock to magazine and other critics who weep crocodile tears about what they term "TV's detrimental effect on the Nation's reading habits."

We rather believe that the bitter remarks about television are caused more by the fear that advertisers are spending money in the new medium than by any great concern over how many books folks are reading these days. Now the critics must find some other basis for attacking their advertising competition.

The increase in library book circulation is in both fiction and non-fiction. When a play appears on the air, requests pour in the next day for copies of it. When a scientific subject is discussed—from heredity to cosmic rays, bird migration to geology—viewers want to learn more on the subject and turn to their libraries.

There is no educational television station in Philadelphia. The demand for books is prompted by programs commercially sponsored or presented as a public service by the commercial stations. So it is standard television fare that's keeping the libraries busy these days.

The increase in reading is an unmistakable sign that television—much maligned as a frivolous medium—is headed in the right direction.

NEW YORK

Bob Stahl reports:

EX-PRESIDENT TRUMAN postponed his Mar. 4 Person to Person date so that he could finish writing his soon-to-be-published memoirs . . . On the Mar. 11 Person, EDWARD R. MURROW will interview brand new parents JOSE and ROSEMARY (CLOONEY) FERRER . . . IMOGENE COCA has signed HAL MARCH, DAVID BURNS and BIBI OSTERWALD for the rest of the season--a veritable repertory company.

FRANK SINATRA or EDDIE ALBERT due for the lead in "Connecticut Yankee," scheduled as a MAX LIEBMAN "spectacular" Mar. 12 . . . LIEBMAN, now negotiating a new NBC contract for next season, may drop the Sunday night spectaculars and produce a regular weekly series while continuing with the Saturday night once-a-month specials.

* * *

JACK LESCOULIE talking with NBC about hosting a daytime TV version of his old radio "Grouch Club" . . . LESCOULIE has written a farce about the movies and TV, titled "Cat in the Bottle," which he hopes to have produced on Broadway next season.

* * *

CELESTE HOLM, whose Honestly, Celeste! died this year, is casting eyes at TV again. This time, though, she insists on doing only film--no more live TV for her . . . The D-Day landing on the Normandy beachhead will be dramatized on You Are There Mar. 13.

* * *

Adventure Theater, a new series of live, original dramas, replaces Father Knows Best, starting Apr. 3. Attempts to retain Father in its Sunday night CBS spot fell through . . . Thanks to his TV appearances, DICK SHAWN will receive $10,000 a week from the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas--four times his pay at the club last year.

* * *

NBC claims most of its summer replacement shows will be on the air only eight weeks this year, compared to the usual 13. Seems that sponsors are finally convinced that people watch TV during the summer, too . . . The Nation boasted 33,816,000 TV sets as of Jan. 1, according to NBC statistics--an increase of 6,000,000 over the same time last year.

* * *

Pepe Le Moke, famed thief of the Casbah, will hit TV soon in a new telefilm series. The title role has not been cast, but it probably won't be CHARLES BOYER, who first glamorized Pepe in the movies.

Farewell To Baggy Pants

These simple props mean Garroway.

Herb Shriner: offbeat in a rural way.

TV's New Crop Of Offbeat Comedians Look And Act Like Ordinary Citizens

When you and I were young, Maggie, comedians wore crumpled pants. They also wore top hats all bashed in at the crown and big, floppy shoes.

That's all changed now. Instead of pants with accordion pleats, comedians wear three-button Madison Avenue suits. In place of funny hats, they wear hornrimmed spectacles. Matter of fact, comedians (many of them, at any rate) don't even look like comedians, anymore. They look like Princeton men. And there's nary a custard pie to be seen.

Take Steve Allen. There's nothing particularly funny-looking about him. He has the thoroughly respectable but faintly tired and exasperated look of a commuter who has just missed the late train to Great Neck.

His jokes are different, too. He doesn't run around the stage like Joe Penner, crying, "Wanna buy a duck?" On the contrary, Allen's humor is what the experts like to call "offbeat."

To begin with, he doesn't tell very many jokes. He just talks—and chortles once in a while at his own dry observations. He also messes around with a lot of papers on his desk. He eats frequently, too. Allen's always nibbling at a chicken leg or a salami, or slurping down a glass of beer.

That's what "offbeat" humor's like. For many of his laughs, Allen relies on the program's guests. Once a guest on Allen's Tonight turned up with a couple of live ducks in a wading pool, and they all went wading.

◀ Steve Allen: a comedian should be liked.

Jack Paar & Co.: the sign clearly indicates something funny is happening on show.

Allen's humor doesn't look funny in print but it has a down-to-earth quality that somehow seems very funny late at night. But if you are one who goes for the baggy-pants type of comic like Milton Berle, Jackie Gleason, Sid Caesar or Red Skelton, don't tune in Allen.

It always has been Allen's theory that it is more important for a TV comedian to be liked than laughed at. "The reason people don't tire of Arthur Godfrey," he insists, "is because he doesn't do anything."

Godfrey, who quite possibly started the entire "offbeat" trend in TV comedy, just sits around spouting gentle humor. And his audience obviously loves it.

In general, the new-style television comic is a humorist rather than a clown. Jack Paar is another good example. He doesn't jump about, fall into the orchestra pit or put a lamp shade on for a hat. Mostly he just stands around and murmurs jokes like this one: "I used to be a watch out in a laundromat. Whenever a fat lady got too close to the washing machine, I'd yell, 'Watch out!'"

Dave Garroway, of the raised hand, bow tie and spectacles, is another of the low-pressure school whose amiable amblings around the set and mild jokes have endeared him to the early-morning risers. A little more brisk is Garry Moore, who sometimes turns a bit coy. He is strong on homespun philosophy and is forever advising viewers to smile, be kind, telephone someone they like and remember Mother's Day.

Then there's George Gobel, latest of the low-pressure men, who moves around the stage as casually as Allen or Garraway but whose patter is considerably livelier. Gobel has a good sense of timing and a style reminiscent of humorist Robert Benchley. ("I'm the kind of a fellow . . . who, whenever anyone on the radio said to me, 'Run down to your neighborhood store,' . . . well, some people walked . . . but I ran.")

Orson Bean is another young member of the oh-so-casual crew-cut set. On his now-departed Blue Angel show, he used to make speeches like:

"Here at the Blue Angel night club we just had an economy cut . . . We now have the doorman painted on the sidewalk . . . The boss has hired midget waiters to make the drinks look bigger . . . And the bartender is out back straining the ice . . ."

Herb Shriner is "offbeat" in a rural way. His style is homey and innocent and his jokes have the flavor of the cracker barrel. ("The reason drive-in movies have become a big thing out my way is because you and your girl get all the advantages of a dark balcony without having to climb four flights of stairs.")

What makes them click? Well, in the words of Fred Allen—who should be an authority—it is simply that TV changed the concept of comedy.

"For the first time in history," Allen remarks in his book, "Treadmill to Oblivion," "the comedian has been compelled to supply himself with jokes and comedy material to compete with the machine."

Could be. But, in a way, it's sad.

Say, do you remember Ben Turpin? Now there was a comical cuss!

Should Senators Cavort On TV?

Sen. Styles Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire: "It would not be undignified for a Senator to appear on a quiz show or an educational program where issues are discussed. Senators have an obligation to appear on certain types of shows, but not on comedy programs."

Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democrat, Tennessee:

"Senators are entitled to a little fun, like anybody else. Quiz shows are an important medium of public information. Many of the question-and-answer shows give the public a chance to observe their elected officials under fire."

Sen. George D. Aiken, Republican, Vermont: "As a rule, I believe that public officials should not participate in comedy and quiz shows. However, if they have a special message to put over to the people, the radio and television shows present a good medium for this purpose."

Sen. George A. Smathers, Democrat, Florida:

"Public officials must honor their office by maintaining a degree of dignity. At the same time, they should not become stuffed shirts. However, a Senator should give priority to his duty to keep the public informed on serious subjects."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Democrat, Washington: "As long as the shows in which they participate are in good taste, I don't see why they should deny to a Senator or to any public official the right to indulge in something very human; namely, a little humor. It's good for all of us."

Sen. James H. Duff, Republican, Pennsylvania:

"Public officials are human beings. I can see no objection whatsoever to their participation in comedy and quiz shows on television as long as, in doing so, they do not in any way degrade themselves or their offices."

...Behind This Picture

Gale Sherwood, who played a smoldering blonde in "Naughty Marietta," and John Conte, the pirate-governor in Max Liebman's spectacular version of the Victor Herbert operetta, are locked in tender embrace—just two lovers all alone. Or that's the way it seems on the television screen at left. And that's the way it looked in millions of homes.

On the set, though, they had plenty of company. During rehearsal (above) and at the actual broadcast, there were cameramen, technicians who fiddled with mikes, and crews that moved the giant equipment—not to mention the booms—crowding in on the pair. That man at right is the floor manager; and the green-shirted gentleman is the production stage manager who relayed instructions from the director at rehearsal. As a matter of fact, the "lovers all alone" must have felt like a couple of goldfish.

In The Land Of The Mambo

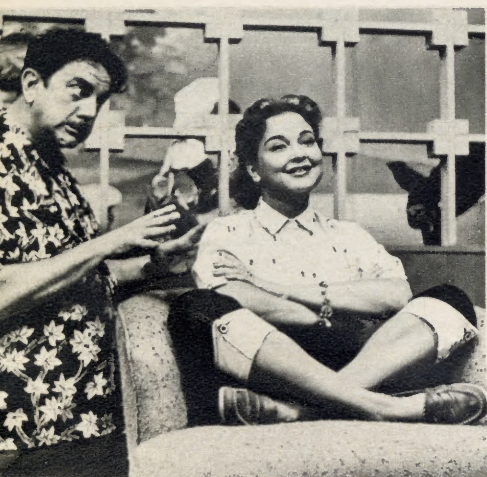

Puerto Rico, that mambo-happy land, is really delirious about television.

It's less than a year since big-time TV hit the Commonwealth via two powerful stations broadcasting from San Juan. But the islanders stay home in droves to tune in favorite programs in their favorite language.

The peculiar problem of television in Puerto Rico is that it must satisfy tastes in two languages—English and Spanish. This challenge is now being met as advertisers learn the public's preferences and as viewers become more discriminating. In the beginning, even test patterns were entrancing.

At the end of 1954, Puerto Rico had 53,194 TV sets in operation, or one for every 42 of the Commonwealth's two-and-a-quarter million population. Four thousand of these were bought a year before the first station went where her husband directs films, appeared with Lucille Ball in a Hollywood film, "Seven Days' Leave."

Puerto Rico's leading comedian, Ramon Rivero, known as "Diplo" on the stage and radio for 18 years, has become virtually a one-man TV gang, writing, producing, directing and starring in three shows each week.

on the air and kept merely as pieces of furniture until TV arrived.

Programs emphasize the Spanish language, even though most Puerto Ricans know English. On WKAQ-TV, a 100,000-watt station owned by the newspaper El Mundo, 30 percent of the programs are in English (some with Spanish subtitles) and 70 percent in Spanish. On WAPA-TV, an independent station which recently went from 10,000 to 60,000 watts, 65 percent are in Spanish, 35 percent in English.

Virtually all of the national advertisers are represented on Puerto Rican television with kinescope versions of such top shows as Studio One, I Love Lucy, Public Defender, Toast of the Town, The Perry Como Show, Life Is Worth Living and Your Hit Parade. Yet Puerto Rico is fast developing top talent of its own.

There's the husband-and-wife team of Maria de Pilar Cortes and Fernando Cortes, who, as "Mapi" and "Papi," are the main characters in a situation comedy like I Love Lucy, right down to the next-door neighbors. Both were stars in the entertainment field long before TV. "Mapi" Cortes, a top movie star in Mexico

Los Jibaros: fire chief Raul Gandara, right, is the author of this one.

There's something for everyone on Puerto Rican television—from El Kioskito for the Howdy Doody crowd to Los Jibaros, a series set in a colmada (grocery store) and written by none other than the Commonwealth's fire chief, Raul Gandara.

Turnabout For Masqueraders

PANELISTS HAVE A GO AT THOSE FANCY COSTUMES

Masquerade Party panelists sit relaxed, in comfortable clothes, while guests swelter under elaborate costumes and make-up. When TV GUIDE suggested that "Turnabout is fair play," they agreed—not too reluctantly. Almost everybody likes to dress up.

Make-up men George Fiala and Bill Herman, and costumer Lou Eisele supervised the panel's conversion into appropriate alter egos. Bobby Sherwood became Robin Hood, of Sherwood Forest; Buff Cobb, a corn-cob-smoking hillbilly; emcee Peter Donald, Peter Rabbit; poet Ogden Nash, poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow; Ilka Chase, Diana, Roman goddess of the chase. At show time, below, they were back in mufti again.

Chicago Dateline

Channel Chatter: H. Leslie Atlass, the resolute WBBM-TV boss man, revealed that work on the conversion of the Chicago Arena into a big CBS-TV center has been resumed in earnest. If early plans materialize, some shows will be televised from the Arena in September. And the entire staff will be housed in the Arena within the next 12 months.

Toni Gilman still slightly unnerved after driving through a roaring Kentucky tornado with her two children.

Desmond

Former Breakfast Club singer Johnny Desmond, who moved his wares to New York, is taking Manhattan by storm. He can now be heard on his own Mutual network radio show every Saturday, has made guest appearances on the CBS-TV network and was just signed for a dramatic role on TV Playhouse for Mar. 6.

Chicago's Metropolitan Opera Company will stage a benefit performance on May 19 for educational station WTTW-TV. The company will present "Andrea Chenier" by Umberto Giordano, which has not been sung in Chicago for 15 years.

Asked about reports that he was on the verge of another hip operation and a five-month absence from TV, Arthur Godfrey admitted he needed such an operation, but denied—at least initially—that a definite date had been set.

Another rumor had an hour-long version of Godfrey's Talent Scouts replacing the Wednesday night Friends show next season. CBS vice president James Seward says the story is two years old and strictly talk. But with the unpredictable Arthur, all hands admit, anything is possible.

Advance Tips On Shows: A new religious program will be launched by WBKB early in March. It will feature the Very Reverend James M. Keen, who presented a series of Marian Year programs last season on WGN-TV.

Don Roth, popular restaurateur, will be featured by Helen Joyce on her Femme Show each Friday morning. A dietary expert, Roth will offer tips on foods.

Three's Not A Crowd

FOR THE LADIES

IT'S BOB AND KAY WITH EDDIE DOUCETTE

WNBQ's press releases covering its new show, Bob and Kay with Eddie Doucette, glowingly claim that "It's got everything." It may not live up to that tribute, but this new midday show (12:45-2 P.M., on 5) does have three popular stars, two top-notch musical aggregations and a varied format.

Heading up the cast are pudgy Bob Murphy, lovely Kay Westfall and chef Eddie Doucette. Dividing the musical honors are the Art Van Damme Quintet and Joseph Gallichio's 16-piece orchestra.

Individually, and as a group, all flash championship form. Bob is just as relaxed as ever, Kay as pretty and vivacious and Eddie as cheerful and efficient. And the music—delightful! In short, program director George Heineman's ambitious merger is off to a spanking good start.

The logic of this blend of talents was at first questioned by WNBQ execs. But the program's producers reasoned that the bulk of its viewers would be women. They knew the show had to have a woman's touch. So, all the aspects of feminine appeal—news, weather reports, travel tips, recipes, reviews and music—were all meshed into 75 minutes.

Bob and Kay, of course, are accomplished at presenting such variety. Rounding out their fourth season as a TV duo, they have perfected a breezy approach to their business.

Chef Doucette's culinary talks are spiced by wit without the theatrical flair of his competitor, Francois Pope. Eddie mixes his recipes by concentrating on an exotic dish one day and some homely fare the next. And while describing each recipe, he is careful to see that the ingredients are conveniently superimposed on the screen.

Smart production also contributes to the show's appeal. The producers wisely keep the show at low pressure. They do not try to imitate the extravaganzas akin to the network's Home show.

If nothing else, the new Bob and Kay with Eddie Doucette offering has spiked the guns of an old adage. Two may be company, but three is not necessarily a crowd.

Modern-day Pied Piper

In appearance, pint-sized and roly-poly Art Hern belies the agility with which he performs as WBKB's Pied Piper. Each week-day, on his 4 P.M. show, Art spins tales of foreign lands and olden times. To set the scenes for these yarns, Art hops aboard a magic whirling top that skims him swiftly through the clouds. With help from the WBKB technicians, Art makes it look absurdly easy.

Young viewers tuning in The Pied Piper enter a fantasy world—a magic forest populated by invisible turtles, talking squirrels and the like. Boss of the enchanted woodland is Pied Piper Hern, rigged up in smiles and an elf's ragged costume.

Art has almost as much power over youngsters as did the legendary Pied Piper. Sometimes it takes a dramatic turn, as in the case of a little girl who had a rheumatic heart condition. The mother of the girl requested Art's help in getting her daughter to be quiet and follow doctor's orders. After he made his TV appeal the little girl became obedient. Art treasures the mother's letter of thanks.

Art has created three distinct characters beloved by moppets. A year and a half ago he introduced the Pied Piper. Six months later, he joined Two-Ton Baker's noon-hour Happy Pirates show as jolly Moby Dick. Prior to leading this double life, Art starred on TV as Natco the Clown, another small-fry favorite.

ART HERN, EX-VILLAIN,

NOW ENCHANTS CHICAGO'S CHILDREN

It's hard to picture good-natured Art as anything but a tot entertainer. Yet he was an out-and-out heavy for most of his theatrical career. He was one of the most sinister villains to ever plague a soap opera heroine. He also played menaces in scores of crime dramas. It wasn't until 1950 that he won the chance, via TV, to shed his evil reputation. Donning grease-paint, he emerged a happy, reformed character: Natco the Clown.

Art's main interest off-camera is reading about Abraham Lincoln. He reports he has "trunks and trunks full of novels, biographies and histories" about the Civil War President. He's also made several trips to Lincolnland—New Salem and Springfield, Ill. Living proof, however, of Art's admiration for the Great Emancipator is Art's two-year-old son. The little boy is proudly named Lincoln Hern.

As wife Lillian watches, Art feeds two-year-old son Lincoln, named for Honest Abe.

Elson and Drees To The Rescue . . .

Competition, and sometimes controversies, may be fierce among sportscasters, but chivalry isn't dead. When Tom Duggan was hospitalized for surgery last month, Jack Drees and Bob Elson rushed in to pinch-hit for him on his numerous daytime, nighttime, weekend shows.

This, of course, isn't news. But what is not popularly known is that both Elson and Drees offered to contribute their services—gratis! They insisted the money be paid to "tumultuous" Tom.

Cuffnotes: A phone call from Tam O'Shanter impresario George S. May brings good news. George revealed Tam's fabulous golf tourney has been set for Aug. 11-14. Plans are being mapped for a Nation-wide telecast, probably over the ABC-TV network. "And we're going to return our Championship Golf show over WNBQ," said May. "The show will start June 7th, with Norm Barry as the shot-by-shot commentator for the full 13 weeks." It's time-tabled for 10:30 to 11 P.M., Tuesday nights.

Although CBS-TV (Channel 2) plans to carry the Baseball Game Of The Week, it may not be seen in Chicago. Trade rumors, however, claim that Channel 2 will carry the Saturday games, starting April 22.

Wally Cox in

"The Would-Be Gentleman"

By Richard Strauss

SPECIAL This is actually part play, part opera.

Prolag

Based on Maliere's classic comedy, this is the story of would-be gentleman Monsieur Jourdain. His idea is to have two operas, a comedy and a tragedy, performed in his home, but he is informed such a performance would last too long. His solution: present both at once.

Opera

This tragicomedy has two sets of characters. One set comes from the Greek myth of Ariadne who was abandoned by Theseus on the island of Naxos. The other set attempts to divert Ariadne with pranks and romantic antics.

Cast of Prolag

HEY KIDS! HERE'S HOW TO CHANGE INK INTO WATER

By Rollie Spongberg

Buckeroos, here's how you can fool your friends. All you need is a black cloth, a glass, thread, a white card and a cork. Cut the cloth into the umbrella shape as shown in figure 1. Be sure the bag fits snugly into the glass.

fig. 2

Sew a black thread to the bottom of this bag and tie the small cork to the other end of the thread. When you insert the bag into your glass, the thread and cork should fit over the side of the glass as shown in figure 2.

Next fill the glass with water. Then, take a white card which is painted black half-way up one side. When you do the trick show your audience the white side and dip it into the cup. While the card is in the cup turn it to the black side so that when you pull the card out the black side shows and everybody thinks there is ink in the glass.

Now, here is how to change the ink into water. Cover the glass with a large white cloth. Grip the cloth where the cork is hanging over the side. Then pull up the entire cloth with the black piece inside of it.

Before you pull off the white cloth say the magic words: "Olson, Olson, our King of Magicians!"

7 BOXING—Eastern Parkway

Bob Baker, Pittsburgh, vs. Rex Layne, Lewiston, Ut., heavyweights, 10 rounds. Bob Finnegan and Tommy Loughron report from Eastern Parkway Arena, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TV GUIDE RATINGS

	Rating	Bouts	W	L	D	KO's
Boker	3	44	38	5	1	19
Layne	6	60	47	11	2	32

Two big, strong heavyweights, both on winning streaks. Boker has won seven in a row; Layne, eight. Boker is a combination boxer-puncher and for a heavy mon he can move with grace. Layne, the mauler, is capable of ending a fight with one punch. He is a crowder who will force the fighting on the inside.

Compiled by Nat Fleischer (The Ring)

9 BOXING—New York City

Pot Lowry, Toledo, O., vs. Pete Adams, Newark, N.J., welterweights, 10 rounds. Chris Schenkel reports from St. Nicholas Arena, New York City.

TV GUIDE RATINGS

	Rating	Bouts	W	L	D	KO's
Lowry	Unrated	43	35	8	0	27
Adoms	Unrated	20	14	4	2	6

Lowry, the ex-Morine, is a hard hitter. In his TV debut last year he upset Joe Miceli. Lowry is an action fighter who relishes a good scrap. Adams, a good prospect, is a capable boxer who can pile up points and move.

Letters to the Editor

YOU TELL TELEVISION

Please address all letters to Regional Editor TV GUIDE, 6 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 2, Ill.

Welcomes Phyllis Back

It was pleasant to see Phyllis Myles back on TV again. She and her husband, band leader Frankie Masters, deserve praise for their relief job on the Tom Duggan Show. Frankie is a good musician as well as an able emcee, and Phyllis is a very talented singer. They should have their own show as they did in the past.—Jack Marshall, Chicago.

Teens Polled On TV

Recently my eighth grade English students completed a special questionnaire about television. You may be interested in the results. It showed: (1) The average amount of viewing totalled 23 hours a week. (2) The favorite show is Disneyland, with George Gobel second. (3) TV GUIDE is the favorite source for program information. (4) The Arthur Godfrey programs are least enjoyed by this age group. Seventy students took part in the project.—Miss Jeanna Wilhelm, Central Junior High, La Porte, Ind.

A "Bargain" Every Week

Why in the world doesn't that furniture company advertising on TV either get a bigger warehouse or a new commercial? Their warehouse is either overloaded, flooded or smoke-damaged. The announcer for the show is also irritating.—Mrs. Carol Britsas, Zion, Ill.

"The Guardsman"

A Comedy By Ferenc Molnar

COLOR We go back to the carefree days of turn-of-the-century Vienna, where actors and actresses drank champagne and lived in lavish establishments. We take a peek into one of these apartments and meet an Actor, an Actress, a Critic and a Mama. The actor and actress are married, the critic is a friend and the mama—well, she was originally a cook but has recently been elevated to her present position of mama, mother-in-law, and general housekeeper. Most important of all, it is spring, when even a not-so-young actresses's fancy turns to love. The actor has a plan. He will test his wife's faithfulness by wooing her in the guise of a dashing guardsman. The action takes place in the apartment and at the opera. The show opened on Broadway in 1924, and starred Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt.

Harried: Dunne and TV family.

Professional Father

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Professional Father, starring Steve Dunne as a child psychologist who can't cope with his own children, is built on a promising program idea. But, unfortunately, the role of the bumbling father is all too familiar to TV viewers. And when Daddy is a child expert—it's all the more ridiculous.

Not that Professional Father doesn't have its bright spots. Dunne and his TV family generate a certain amount of warmth while tangling with some funny, if incredible and slapstick-tinged, situations. But there's no subtlety and little sustained amusement.

Dunne does well with an average role, and pretty Barbara Billingsley sparkles as his wife. Ted Marc and Beverly Washburn are acceptable as their kids, and Ann O'Neal fares well as a housekeeper.—R.S.

Gerald Mohr: an active innkeeper.

Foreign Intrigue

In line with producer Sheldon Reynolds' policy of revamping his shows from time to time, Foreign Intrigue this year is displaying a new hero, veteran radio-TV actor Gerald Mohr. Mohr is cast as a hotel owner with a penchant for helping people out of desperate trouble, most of it involving international espionage and all of it extremely hectic.

What saves the show from cops-and-robbers tedium is Reynolds' keen eye for authentic settings (the show is produced entirely abroad) and his casting director's choice of good European character actors whose English is at least understandable.

As Christopher Storm, the American innkeeper, Mohr handles himself with underplayed aplomb. Not a pretty-boy, he fits well into the Viennese scheme of TV things, and is, of course, a strong-armed port-in-a-storm for a variety of pretty girls.

Most scripts are well written, and Mohr plays them with a good deal more than average competence. For the viewer tired of homicide squads and waterfront goons, Foreign Intrigue offers an exciting change.—D.J.

FINE TUNING

By Ollie Crawford

Early-morning TV shows prove successful. It's a nice change to look at someone else's face while shaving.

Most gals prefer it to the back of their husbands' newspaper.

Garroway was the first to find out that the early bird catches the ermine. You know Garroway—he's Steve Allen's daylight replacement. He became so popular that in Mandalay the dawn now comes up like Garroway. Then Jack Paar started getting up at the wisecrack of dawn.

Paar doesn't have to worry about finances because he has a side job waking up the birds.

Friend of ours is holding out for an early-morning music program called Music to Snarl By. The first time his wife ever heard a pleasant word in the morning was when Garroway said, "Peace." This boy could get out of the wrong side of bed in a Pullman berth. He has to wear a mask to get the morning milk because his face sours the cream.

For this boy, four cups of coffee is the magic potion that turns Mr. Hyde back into Dr. Jekyll.

The first time he smiled at one of the morning TV shows, his dog didn't recognize him and bit him.

Marlon Marlowe Goes It Alone; Tattletales Plague Ralph Edwards

NEW YORK . . . "Leave Arthur Godfrey? I have a lot to learn and a lot to do, before I can ever do that," says Marlon Marlowe. Her official publicity for her cafe appearance at the Hotel Pierre doesn't mention Godfrey, however. The reason: she wants to make it on her own . . . Ralph Edwards' This Is Your Life gang admits it's getting harder and harder to keep their secret. In Chicago, after Ralph asked all columnists not to reveal in advance that a local cab driver would appear on the show, the fact popped up in a news story. Fortunately, the hackie didn't see it; he had been sent out on a trip that took all afternoon—but Edwards has about decided to stay in Hollywood from now on.

■ Jackie Gleason's real first name is John. His old friend, fat Jack E. Leonard, addresses him nowadays as "John D. Gleason." . . . Milton Berle was greeted at a night club by Morey Amsterdam with "Good evening, 'Mr. Television.'" Berle nodded graciously. "When," added Amsterdam, "are you going to repair my set?"

■ Things have a way of working out all right after all. Fred Allen helped plan a new quiz show but got sick and recommended that Herb Shriner step in. Herb became star of Two for the Money. Fred recovered and undertook another quiz show—but it failed. Now Fred's on What's My Line with an enormous audience, not working too hard, and happy. He doesn't get as big a fee as Herb, but, it's pointed out, "Fred doesn't need as much—he's already got plenty."

Steve Allen fans in Los Angeles are starting a drive to get his popular Tonight beamed to them five nights a week. Steve got his first big break there.

■ Groucho Marx told me this for a newspaper interview, but I think it bears repeating because it sums up the TV scramble today: "These lifetime contracts the TV stars are signing don't mean anything—because no television star will live a lifetime. Six Beauty Tips From Texas

By Gerry Johnson

Star of Variety Fair, telecast over
KRLD-TV, Dallas, Tex.

"Every woman is beautiful!"

That statement usually is made by somebody named "Mr. Pierre" or "Mr. Ivan," who goes on to say that you, too, can be a Helen of Troy, (j.g.) if you spend four hours a day with your feet elevated and your face plastered with Mr. Ivan's Homogenized Turtle Oil.

Well, I don't believe it!

We can't all be equally beautiful and I'm glad I've given up worrying about this fact. But we can all be mighty pleasant to look at, without spending four hours a day and a fortune on turtles.

Here's a kind of adaptable health and beauty routine that seems pretty practical:

No. 1. The Boy Scouts' rule of a daily good deed makes you feel better and lights you up from inside. That kind of beauty keeps growing.

No. 2. Your health comes first. Get eight hours of sleep each night. Eat lots of lean meats, dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables, and drink eight glasses of water daily. Fresh air and exercise are a must.

No. 3. You can't beat a well-scrubbed look. Creams are fine, but I'm sold on soap and water for basic cleanliness. I like a bath and three face washings a day and a shampoo every five days.

No. 4. Brush your hair. Bend forward at the waist until your head hangs down in front of your knees. Now brush 500 strokes. (After a while this doesn't make you dizzy any more.)

No. 5. Handle your face gently. Don't rub, pound or pummel. (This is usually referred to as "massage.")

No. 6. In applying make-up, practice makes perfect. Try each time to improve your skill, as if you were a painter. Keep experimenting and keep natural-looking. A "real"-looking you is much prettier than an unconvincing copy of Audrey Hepburn.

To most of us, time and money are in short supply. This seems to me a program that doesn't gobble up too much of either—and doggone it, I'm going to try to stick to it!

Happy Holliday

'OSCAR'-WINNING JUDY IS ENJOYING RETURN TO SONG-AND-DANCE ROLES

Judy Holliday, a girl of simple tastes, likes to wear slacks, eat, gabble with her friends and read Marcel Proust. She's essentially easy-going and even-dispositioned. But two things make her boil.

One: she begins to simmer whenever someone corners her at a party and confides, "I love you in the movies. You slay me with that voice!" Two: she burns whenever someone else burbles, "I love you on TV. How did you learn to sing and dance so fast?"

Judy Holliday—Ex-Orange

The facts are that the offscreen Judy Holliday doesn't have that voice at all. (She invented it for her role in "Born Yesterday" on the Broadway stage, used it to snag an Oscar in the Hollywood version of the play.) Furthermore—and this may come as a surprise to those who have seen her in four Max Liebman "spectaculars"—she actually learned to sing and dance before she learned to act.

"I began my career as a song-and-dance girl at the age of four," says Judy, a tall (5-foot, 7-inch) trim (120-pound) intermittent blonde with

Tony Randall joined Judy in TV drama.

In 'It Should Happen To You,' Judy

a friendly, matter-of-fact personality, "when my mother dragged me to a ballet school and threw me in."

Approximately 15 years later, a stage-struck, high-school-graduate Judy went to work for orotund Orson Welles—as a switchboard operator. When not pulling plugs, she and another young hopeful, Adolph Green, worked on a series of musical comedy skits they had devised with Betty Comden. The skits were sophisticated little burlesques and Holliday and Green were convinced they were terrific. For a long time they were alone in this conviction.

One bleak day in 1938, Judy and Green dropped into a Greenwich Village hide-away called The Village Vanguard, confronted the proprietor, Max Gordon, and persuaded him to use their skits as a floor show. That marked the birth of "The Revuers," starring Holliday, Green and Comden.

The Revuers kidded celebrities, burlesqued musical extravaganzas, offered a documentary on a man who invented a shoehorn, composed wry lyrics on the news. Judy sang, danced, played witches, princesses, chorines and maiden aunts and sometimes sold cigarets.

The Revuers were a hit. So, when Gordon moved uptown to the Blue Angel night club, he brought the act with him, raising Judy's weekly salary from nothing to $25 a week. After appearances in posh spots, the group took off for Hollywood with a "verbal" film contract—which, to quote a Goldwynism, wasn't worth the paper it was written on. Stranded, the trio resumed its night club chores.

Eventually, Judy was offered a seven-year contract by 20th Century-Fox. After joining her in one ill-fated film sequence, Comden and Green returned to New York, to become concocters of stage—and ultimately screen—musicals, like "On the Town."

Judy stayed behind. "In seven years," she recalls, "I got two parts. The rest of the time I lay around in the sun, gradually becoming an orange."

After seven years, Holliday left Hollywood. Back in New York, she appeared in "Kiss Them for Me," which won her a $500 award as the best supporting actress of the year. She lived on the money for six months in a furnished room. Then she got the break that made her famous.

Three days before a new Garson Kanin comedy, "Born Yesterday," was to open in Philadelphia, its star, Jean Arthur, became ill. The producers decided to take a chance on Judy.

She played Billie Dawn, a not-so-dumb blonde with a voice like that of a Brooklyn girl talking and eating fresh celery at the same time. She learned the entire role in three days (her IQ: 172) and opened to raves.

"Born Yesterday" ran three years on Broadway. Then Columbia Pictures bought the rights and, reluctantly, as a last resort, signed Judy to play Billie Dawn. She promptly won an Academy Award.

Judy, who had made a few TV appearances earlier, scored last February in a Billie Dawn-type role on Goodyear Playhouse. Restored to a comedy song-and-dance trio (some-time partners: Steve Allen, Dick Shawn) by the astute Max Liebman this season, she kayoed critics and viewers alike.

However, although she has signed to appear in several more Liebman "spectaculars," Judy isn't interested in TV as a full-time career. She would rather devote her time to her husband, musician David Oppenheim, their two-year-old son, Jonathan Louis, and their huge old high-ceilinged apartment in New York.

She plans more movie work for Columbia, but says that Hollywood depresses her.

"I like to eat," she wails. "Out there they don't let a girl eat."

'Yo Ho, Rinty!'

Here's how: director Bob Walker plans scene with Lee Aaker, Rinty, trainer Lee Duncan.

Dog Star Always Saves The Day —But With Out-Of-Sight Help

Things have come to a pretty pass when the U.S. Cavalry and some of the most rugged pioneers of the West (and we mean the Old West, pardner) have to rely on a dog to keep the villains at bay.

But since they're doing it every week on ABC, they couldn't have picked a better protector than Rin Tin Tin, who has been making a howling success of the protection business for the last 32 years—ever since his 1923 debut in the movie, "Where the North Begins." As a matter of fact, when Rusty (child star Lee Aaker) yells, "Yo ho, Rinty!" every child watching knows the bad-dies soon will be on the run.

Actually, the dog seen on television may be any one of three animals, including the great-grandson and the great-great-grandson of the original, who died in 1932. All that matters, however, is that Rinty—all three of

Down, boy! And on this signal, unseen by TV viewers, dog flattens.

Rinty is supposed to spot killer's jacket. Duncan arouses him with it so that (r.), on camera, he'll pull it from hanger.

Boy's best friend: Lee Aaker and Rinty look ahead to new adventures.

him—will take part in a love scene as eagerly as engage in a fierce fight, depending on a signal or two from behind the camera.

The original Rin Tin Tin was a spoil of World War I, a German shepherd puppy abandoned by Kaiser Wilhelm's troops in a French farmhouse and brought home after the war by Lee Duncan, a 29-year-old American flier and Los Angeles sporting goods salesman.

Duncan, now 63, says he decided to teach Rin Tin Tin I the tricks that made him famous after a reviewer for a dog breeders' journal criticized the animal's clumsiness during a dog show. Lavishing patience, affection and reward on his eager pupil, he soon had a pet that was smarter than the critic.

A full-time professional dog trainer ever since, Duncan has followed the same techniques with all the subsequent Rin Tin Tins.

To teach a puppy to sit, for example, Duncan places him in a sitting position, instructs him softly to "Sit . . . sit . . . sit," and holding a finger gently on his head to keep him still, circles slowly around him. Repeating this for several lessons, always praising the puppy "from the heart" for trying, Duncan widens the circle until he can walk out of sight.

"I consider the dog trained when he can sit for three minutes without following me," he says.

More difficult tricks, like fetching objects at command, sometimes require special surroundings. Duncan trains dogs to fetch indoors in a hallway where they can concentrate on the lesson without being distracted by intruders. He never uses a stick as the object, always an old shoe or something soft, and never throws very far.

The fourth and fifth sons of the original Rin Tin Tin, used by Duncan in the TV series, are both full-blooded German shepherds. Rin Tin Tin IV is four years old and used mainly with horses, scenes with other animals being his specialty. Rin Tin Tin V is 18 months old and fierce by nature. Being a virtuoso growler, he gets his workouts chiefly in fight scenes.

The third dog assisting Duncan in filming the TV shows is Flame, Jr., 18-month-old son of Flame, a 10-year-old canine star of 36 motion pictures. Flame, Jr., responds intelligently and efficiently to either voice or hand signals from his owner-trainer, Frank V. Barnes, as well he might. Flame, Jr., is paid $750 a week.

"He eats the steaks and I get the dog food," says Barnes, who coaches him from the sidelines for an extra fee of $39 a day.

Dan Jenkins reports:

BOB HOPE has turned down a reported $1,000,000 offer from General Motors for five shows next season. "I'm kinda tired," HOPE told this reporter. "Nothing wrong with my health basically, but the doctor suggested I just take a nice, big rest. I'll make a couple of pictures--and maybe one or two shots on TV--and that's all. I just don't want to sign something that says I've got to be somewhere at 9 o'clock every Monday morning."

I Married Joan is folding, JOAN DAVIS being worn out after three years of it. Now watch the rush to get JIM BACKUS rolling in a show of his own . . . NBC is in there pitching to take ANN SOTHERN's Private Secretary away from CBS . . . BOB CUMMINGS speeding up his TV film shooting schedule to go into "How to Be Very, Very Popular" at 20th Century-Fox . . . And CBS is still fighting the good fight to clear TV rights to "The Mikado," which is planned as an hour-long film starring BING CROSBY and GEORGE BURNS and GRACIE ALLEN.

A Lesson in Living:

How Liberace Faced His Greatest Challenge

“Those tours were brutal—three-and-a-half-hour concerts followed by two hours of signing autographs, living out of a suitcase, racing for planes and trains. The schedule was just too much for one human being to endure and it all caught up with me.”

Yet Liberace is the first to admit: “I was lucky—real lucky,” when his doctors diagnosed his heart condition before extreme damage had been done.

During his two months of enforced rest, Liberace has had time to reflect on the lesson of his illness—to make vital decisions about his future.

It is of these thoughts and decisions that Liberace talked in great earnest to TV GUIDE’s staff writer, Dan Jenkins. Next week, TV GUIDE brings you Jenkins’ moving account of his interview with Liberace.

Don’t miss TV GUIDE’s biggest exclusive since its interview with Arthur Godfrey. Read
